

Please reconsider the approved use of cell phones in flight. There would be total chaos in the cabin in an emergency landing prep-right when we would really need people to be calm and to pay full attention they would be trying to call all their loved ones (or the media!). Also, this would enable terrorists another tool to help coordinate their activities! A bad-also noisy-idea!